Welcome

On behalf of the Corrections Technology Association's Executive Committee, please allow me to welcome you to sunny Phoenix, Arizona, and the wonderful grounds of the Pointe Hilton Squaw Peak Resort! Your board has worked hard to put together what I believe is one of the finest Technology Summits to date.

We have a number of timely and relevant sessions in all three of our tracks. As you unwind from your travels to get here, please take a little time to read through this program and familiarize yourself with sessions offered over the next few days. Be sure to take note of the various social events (including the famous CTA Karaoke night) and take advantage of the networking opportunities they afford!

This year we have also partnered with IJIS to host their Corrections Technology Committee meeting on site Wednesday morning. It is a great opportunity to learn more about how IJIS and CTA work together to further collaboration between corrections and other criminal justice groups.

Please remember to make the most of the excellent opportunities available this year to interact with our CTA Business Partners who provide the resources and support for what we do on a day to day basis. CTA's Business Partners are dedicated to the mission and goals of CTA and we want to express our genuine appreciation to all of them for helping to make our annual meeting a continued success!

I hope you find the sessions productive and our planned social events enjoyable. Make sure to find some time to enjoy a little golf, a poolside lounge, or explore the many things Phoenix has to offer. If you have arranged to stay a little longer after the Summit ends, the canyons to the north and the deserts to the south are great places to see and explore!

Thank you for your attendance.

Sincerely,

Douglas B. Smith III
President, CTA

Join the Community Today and Put THREADS™ to Work Identifying Actionable Intelligence and...

- Distinguish patterns of fraternization between inmates and correctional officer or nursing and commissary staff
- Discover common contacts between inmates and called parties
- Customize the information and reporting to filter out irrelevant calls such as girlfriends or legal counsel from analysis.
- Detect criminal organizations being run from within jail
- Find associations between multiple parties.
- Identify inmates who possibly have a cell phone based on calling patterns and holes in communications.

Securus Technologies has partnered with top experts in investigative analysis and law enforcement to bring you the very best in communications analysis, providing law enforcement with actionable intelligence and focused leads using data nationwide!

Over 400 law enforcement officers nationwide are using THREADS™ during their investigation to uncover focused leads based on their targets/suspects using the data available in THREADS™

Aside from Corrections, THREADS™ allows investigators the ability to import external investigative data such as:

- Cell forensics information from confiscated cell phones (text messages, emails, call records, contacts, pictures, etc. ...)

Syscon helps corrections agencies

Know who they have incarcerated and under supervision.

And how to manage them.

www.syscon.net

You probably know him as “America’s Toughest Sheriff,” a name given to him years ago by the media. It’s a name he certainly has earned as head of the nation’s third largest Sheriff’s Office which employs over 3400 people. But even before he became Sheriff in 1993, Joe Arpaio was one tough lawman. After serving in the U.S. Army from 1950 to 1953, and as a Washington, D.C., and Las Vegas, NV, police officer for almost five years, Arpaio went on to build a federal law enforcement career and a reputation for fighting crime and drug trafficking around the world.

In 1992, Arpaio successfully campaigned to become the Sheriff of Maricopa County. Since then he has been reelected to an unprecedented five 4-year terms. During his tenure as Sheriff of Maricopa County, Arpaio has consistently earned high public approval ratings.

Arpaio has between 7500 - 10,000 inmates in his jail system. In August, 1993, he started the nation’s largest Tent City for convicted inmates. Two thousand convicted men and women serve their sentences in a canvas incarceration compound. It is a remarkable success story that has attracted the attention of government officials, presidential candidates, and media worldwide.

As chief law enforcement officer for the county, Arpaio continues to reduce crime with hard-hitting enforcement methods. His deputies and detectives have solved several high-profile murder cases, including numerous child murders. The posse, whose ranks have increased to 3,000 members under Arpaio, is the nation’s largest volunteer posse. Posse men and women help in search and rescue and other traditional police work as well as in special operations like rounding up deadbeat parents, fighting prostitution, patrolling malls during holidays, and investigating animal cruelty complaints. The posse’s contributions are invaluable and essentially free to taxpayers.

No wonder Sheriff Arpaio has been profiled in over 4500 U.S. and foreign newspapers, magazines, and TV news programs. His leadership and the excellent work of his staff have catapulted the Maricopa County Sheriff’s Office into the ranks of elite law enforcement agencies.

On a personal note, Sheriff Arpaio and his wife Ava have been married for over 54 years and have two children, both residing in the Phoenix area. The Arpaio’s have four grandchildren. Arpaio looks forward to many more years as Sheriff of Maricopa County.
